

Aurum Impact

Internship in Impact investing

Why Aurum Impact?

We are at a critical point in our history. Climate change, the destruction of ecosystems, social injustice and inequality are some of the greatest threats to our planet and future generations. We need effective communication between politics, society, and the private sector to transform these challenges into opportunities, and to shape a better future.

At Aurum Impact, we invest in startups which contribute to the preservation of ecosystems and the advancement of fairer and more stable social systems. And that is why we need you! We are looking for a rockstar intern to join us in developing and deepening our investment theses, as well as to help us source and evaluate purpose-driven startups.

If you are looking for an internship with a high level of responsibility in an international environment, have a growth mindset, and an affinity for detailed analyses, please apply to join us for shaping the world of tomorrow.

Your tasks

- Preparing industry research to contribute to our investment strategy in one of our focus areas; Climate & Energy, Natural Ecosystems, Circularity & Materials, and Social Stability
- Supporting the investment team with all parts of the investment process, including sourcing startups, conducting market research, interviewing industry experts and stakeholders, conducting financial evaluations and impact assessments, and writing investment proposals
- Actively support building the Aurum Impact brand by representing us at industry events, and support with marketing activities such as content for social media

Your background

- A degree in STEM, business & economics, social sciences, journalism, or sustainability

- Ideally some relevant work experience such as internships in VC, impact investment, startup, investment banking, consulting, or NGO
- Team player with a sense of ownership and driving through projects to completion
- A growth mindset with the willingness to take in and act on feedback
- Great analytical as well as communication skills are required
- Mission-driven mindset is a must
- Strong interest in impact and venture capital is desired
- Excellent communication skills in English (+ German is a plus)
- You are based in or willing to locate to either Munich or Berlin

What we can offer you

- Steep learning curve in the areas of startups, sustainability, and venture capital
- Working with a mission-driven, diverse, and friendly team. We speak 10 languages in between us, and would love to add more
- Access to a huge network in the European startup and impact ecosystem

We encourage you to apply even if you do not fulfil all the criteria. We would love you start as soon as possible, for a minimum of 3 months but preferably 5-6 months.

Please send your CV, motivational letter, and latest grade transcript to team@aurum-impact.de. We look forward hearing from you!
